EFFORTS TO FORM CABINET FAIL; ERZBERGER NAMED TO HEAD PEACE DELEGATION

Allies Asked to Immediately Admit Germans to League of Nations.

SEEK TO SAVE THE KAISER

Note to Premier Clemenceau, President of Peace Conference, Also Pleads for Limitation of Indemnity to Hundred Billion Marks.

PARIS, June 21—Dispatches received over the American military wire into Germany early this afternoon stated that Herr Mueller, having failed to form a cabinet, Dr. Edward David, former president of the national assembly, had been asked to assume the task.

PARIS, June 21—President Ebert has requested Herr Mueller, majority Socialist leader to form a new German cabinet, according to advices received by the American delegation.

Mathias Erzberger probably will head the new German peace delegation, the advices indicate.

BERLIN, Friday, June 20—Walthas Erzberger (mentioned as probable head of the new German peace delegation) is reported to have sent a note to Premier Clemenceau as president of the peace conference, asking whether the Allies will agree to the immediate admission of Germany to the League of Nations. Herr Erzberger also desires to know if the powers will consent to the limitation of Germany's indemnity to 100,000,000 gold marks, and renounce the efforts to have former Emperor William surrendered.

The note does not say whether Germany will sign the peace treaty but the inference seems clear that she would accept the treaty if these concessions were made.

It is known that difficulty is being experienced in securing a majority without the German democrats for the formation of a government and the conditions named by Herr Erzberger are those upon which the democrats would re-enter the majority block.

The Centrist party also has declared that it desired similar concessions but its position as to this has not been regarded as an unshakable one.

BERLIN, Friday, June 20—After futile all day conference with the various party factions the government this evening declared itself unable to pick a new cabinet and decided to postpone the effort for 48 hours.

ROME June 21—King Victor Emanuel has requested Francesco Nitti former minister of the treasury, to form a cabinet, the Giornale D'Italia announces semi-officially.

Former Premier Tittoni will be foreign minister, it is added.

EKATERINODAR, Southern Russia Tuesday June 17—The forces of General Denikine, the anti-Bolshevik leader in southern Russia, are advancing rapidly towards the Volga in pursuit of the demoralized soviet troops. The Denikine forces are within 20 miles of Tzaritsin on the Volga south of Saratov.

COBLENZ, June 21—A state of siege has been declared in the district of Munster, Westphalia, northeast of Cologne, because of Spartan disturbances, according to information reaching American headquarters here.

DIRIGIBLE SCOUT SHIP

Two Thousand Miles Covered by R-34 in Baltic Sea Cruise.

By Associated Press.

EAST FORTUNE, Scotland Friday, June 20—The British dirigible R-34 which left here Tuesday returned today after a flight into the Baltic for the two-fold purpose of learning whether there is any unusual activity in German shipping and to further test the machine before attempting to fly across the Atlantic.

The giant machine had a rough trip and it is unlikely she can be ready to start for America under 10 days. The ship, it was learned, went abreast of Berlin during the trip, flying just outside the three mile limit. It is estimated that the total round trip of the Baltic by the airship totaled 2,000 miles.

TRI-STATE CANDY COMPANY AND ITS EMPLOYEES FEAST

Affair is occasion for discussion of Cooperation and Efficiency.

PARADE BEFORE BANQUET

During His Remarks General Manager H. L. Carpenter Mentions Plan to Largely Increase Capacity of the Plant; F. A. Tarr and Others Speak.

Employees, stockholders and officers of the Tri-State Candy company had a big get-together meeting at a banquet at the Arlington hotel downtown last night. For two and a half hours the heads of the firm and employees from the various departments dined on roast turkey and other good things and talked on ways and means for increasing the efficiency of the plant and the welfare of the workers.

The session was one of the most successful of its kind ever held. Practically every employer was present and only two officers were absent, making a total of about 70 persons.

The banquet followed a parade of the streets in which 22 automobiles of the company carrying the employees took part. Candy was thrown to the public all along the route. The parade was cut short on the West Side on account of the storm which broke just as the machines were being loaded at the hotel.

While the guests ate Miss Elizabeth Mae Brown sang. The Tri-State quartet composed of William Percy, L. K. Bonington, J. A. Richards and A. C. Gleason also gave vocal selections.

One of the most popular numbers of the evening was "Springtime" sung by Miss Pauline Carpenter little daughter of H. L. Carpenter, manager of the company. It was little Miss Carpenter's first banquet and she had a glorious time. "Patti" is a favorite with the Tri-Staters and she holds a prominent place in the affection of them all.

H. L. Carpenter gave the first talk of the evening. He told the employees it was the intention of the firm to do all possible for their welfare and also spoke of the extension program the company had in mind which will greatly increase the capacity of the plant.

"It is the plan to make this organization cooperative," he said, "and if we make money we are going to share it with the employees. We have a plant in mind that will be a boost to Connellsville. We want to make Connellsville a candy town and put it on the map."

Mr. Carpenter spoke of the Tri-State slogan as "Do It Better" and urged the cooperation of every employee in promoting this program. He also spoke of a plan for an amusement room for employees.

F. A. Tarr of Dawson a member of the firm acted as toastmaster. He also gave a short address speaking on the necessity of efficiency on the part of employees.

"You will make a success in whatever you undertake if you think of nothing else," he said. "Leave your domestic troubles at home when you come to work and when you go home leave your work at the factory."

Other talks and reminiscences were given by the salesmen and directors including C. S. Swan, William Percy, C. E. Wilson, H. Richter, R. J. Brown, B. W. Cope of Latrobe, Orr of Monaca, L. K. Bevington of Monaca, Md., L. K. Bevington of Monaca, W. Va. and J. A. Richards of Somerset county.

HARRISBURG, June 21—In order that the Mothers' Pension Fund may have means at its disposal to care for the 1,300 women who are in need of assistance as result of the influenza epidemic, Senator Crow has started a movement to raise the appropriation from $600,000 to $750,000.

The original bill called for $1,000,000 but it was cut to $600,000 by the House appropriations committee in face of the admission that it would be inadequate to provide for the 6,000 women now entitled to pensions.

DAWSON GIRL IS PICKED BY THEDA BARA, SCREEN STAR, AS SECOND MARY PICKFORD

Famed Actress Prevails on Parents to Have Virginia Rust Enter Field.

SISTER ALSO IS IN LINE

Did you drop from Fairyland?

No, we just came out of the hotel.

The question was asked by Miss Theda Bora, the motion picture star of the William Fox company. The answer came from Miss Virginia and Ruth Rust children of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rust formerly of Dawson now residents during the winter seasons of Tucson, Ariz. and the summers of the cooler city of Los Angeles, Cal.

As a result of the chance meeting between Miss Bora and the Ris children Dawson may some day boast of movie star or two. Lured to do so by the actress the parents of Virginia and Ruth have arranged for them to enter training for the motion picture field according to word received by relatives here.

The meeting above referred to was in a park at Los Angeles. Struck with the beauty of the girls the screen star invited them to accompany her to her studio. They told her they could not go without their parents' consent. Miss Bora arranged a visit to the father and mother and laid before them the possibilities of children of their beauty and apparent ability.

Virginia will make a second Mary Pickford. Miss Bora is quoted as saying.

Averse at first to the suggestion, Mr. and Mrs. Rust finally agreed to have the children go in training if it is learned.

Virginia is 13 years old, Ruth 11.

WHEAT OUTLOOK IN PENNSYLVANIA IS REPORTED AS FINE

DAMAGE BY STORMS, RUST AND PESTS IS BELIEVED TO BE SLIGHT.

AVERAGE OF 21.5 BUSHELS

Per Acre or Total of 33,932,500 is Estimate of Department of Agriculture; Condition of Oats Crops Indicate Production of 38,773,000 Bushels.

HARRISBURG, June 21.—Judging from what men connected with the crop report service of the State Department of Agriculture say Pennsylvania will go into the 33,000,000 bushel class in wheat this year. The reports cover the month of May and it is not believed that storms, rust and pests will cause much material difference, except in isolated cases in the Cumberland and Leetanon Valleys.

The June 1 estimates of Secretary of Agriculture Rasmussen are given as follows:

"Weather conditions were favorable during the month of May and wheat still continued to improve. The condition is estimated at 105 per cent, compared with normal, and forecasts a yield of 23.5 bushels per acre. On this basis the total production will reach 33,932,500 bushels, and will be Pennsylvania's record crop. The yield last year was estimated at 26,023,574 bushels.

The damage from rust, smut and storms reported from scattered sections, but it is believed that the injury will not be serious. The area of wheat abandoned this spring was so small that no deduction is made in the acreage on that account.

"Rye is in splendid condition and forecasts 103 per cent compared with a full crop. This indicates a yield of 19.5 bushels per acre and a total production of 5,379,000 bushels. The production last year was estimated at 4,376,500 bushels.

"Due to weather conditions, the sowing of oats covered a long period this year as it was begun in March in the southern counties and was not completed in some of the northern tier counties on June 1. The area of oats is estimated at 1,123,717 acres, which is practically 100 per cent, compared with last year. The condition on June 1 is 95 per cent, compared with normal and indicates a yield of 34.2 bushels per acre and a total production of 38,773,000 bushels. The crop will probably be above or below these figures, according to the change in condition from now until harvest is above or below the average condition. The crop last year was estimated at 44,103,000 bushels.

"The estimated area of barley is 14,000 acres, which is the same as last year. The condition is 97 per cent and indicates a yield of 407.40 bushels. The 1918 crop was estimated at 394,200 bushels.

"The outlook for hay is encouraging and shows an improvement of four points during the month of May. On June 1, appearance indicates a yield of 97 per cent compared with normal, or 1.5 tons per acre. It appears that there are approximately 337,300 tons of hay in the farmers' hands. This is eight per cent of last year's crop."

BROTHERHOOD REPORTS LAUD Y. M. C. A. WORK

Tide Has Turned in Criticism of the Organization's War Work on Western Front.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—In a statement made public today, the executive committee of the Army and Navy department of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew presents a report made to it upon the A. E. F. activities of the Y. M. C. A. by Benjamin F. Flinney, its chief secretary. In his report Mr. Flinney speaks frankly of the Y. M. C. A. criticism, and says that the tide has turned.

Mr. Flinney, who is not connected with the Y. M. C. A. in any way, went overseas in March on a special commission for the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. In civilian clothes he visited the ports of embarkation for home, the back areas, famous battle-fields, and the Army of Occupation.

His report is as follows:

"Everywhere I went I found the Y. M. C. A. is doing a wonderful piece of work. There has been criticism of it among the doughboys, especially in the port cities, because of misunderstandings and the tide has turned; and now they are praising it.

"The men of the A. E. F. flock to the Y. M. C. A. leave areas as the next best thing to going home. I went down to the Napa area on a doughboy special, which is one of the two trains leaving Paris every day for the leave areas. The 'Y' has made arrangements with the Government for these trains. Red tape has been cut, and the man's pass is the only ticket required; in fact, it is the only ticket accepted on either of these trains.

"While traveling about I talked with both enlisted men and officers about the Y. M. C. A. I found that whenever a doughboy publicly made some criticism he was immediately called upon to defend himself by other doughboys.

"I talked with some Major-Generals and found them unanimous in asserting that the 'Y' had done a remarkable piece of work under adverse circumstances. One General, whose name made names for themselves in the Chateau Thierry fighting, told me that the 'Y' was right up front with his men during that engagement. I do not know, and neither do the men, what they would do without the 'Y'.

"Everywhere I went I found it at work. The other welfare organizations are doing good work, too, I was told about them but I did not see them in action."

"The soldiers of the A. E. F. look to the 'Y' as a general guide, and source of information. It is the friend of all."

Sometime ago the Brotherhood of St. Andrew issued a statement on the war work of the 'Y' in the United States. At that time it did not take up their overseas work, because full information was not at hand. Mr. Flinney's report backs up the statement made by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew and is therefore used in order that the general public may be in a better position to pass judgment on the matter.

NO REGRET WILL BE FELT.

The interest the people of Connellsville outside the membership of the Methodist Episcopal congregation have had in the matter of selecting a site for the erection of a new church building did not arise from a desire to champion the cause of those who advocated the use of the Ruth property for that purpose. That public sentiment was generally in favor of that site in preference to the Apple street location, was but the logical conclusion from the arguments presented in support of the proposition to select the former in preference to the latter—just as the majority of the members of the congregation were influenced to a like decision.

Aside from a desire that the question might be settled to the satisfaction of those most concerned, and in such a way as would best promote the permanent growth and larger usefulness of the church as one of the city's institutions, and as the proposed new place of worship would become an evidence of the city's progress, the public took no sides in the question. This was a matter for the membership alone to determine, which it has done by a large majority in favor of the Ruth site. Now that the approval has been given it will be found to be quite in accord with the view of the public generally that a wise choice has been made.

It is unfortunate that in this instance, as has so frequently occurred in the history of most churches, a sharp difference of opinion should arise among the members of the congregation over the desirability of making a change of location. Churchgoers become attached to a building or location very much as they become attached to a home and are loth to move. For this reason propositions to erect new church buildings, particularly if on a new site, develop more or less opposition. But happily the acerbities are soon forgotten in the larger work that is always found to be done whenever a congregation provides itself with a more adequate equipment.

The friends of Methodism in Connellsville are hopeful, yes they firmly believe, that this will be the experience of the Methodist Episcopal congregation and that once their new place of worship has been dedicated the members will have such pride in it, and will manifest such zeal in promoting the activities of their church that not a single regret will be felt because of the action that has been taken.

TIME TO "CLEAN HOUSE."

The bogey of "politics," which is the refuge of Democrats whenever a word of criticism is directed against any member, policy or act of the administration, cannot be hidden as a defense against the charges made yesterday in Congress by Representative Gallivan, Democratic member from Massachusetts. Mr. Gallivan was merely speaking what is in the mind of the average plain citizen, without thought or design, as to the political significance of his statements, when he fearlessly directed attention to "misguided officials" who are responsible for the manifestations of disorder which have been occurring in different parts of the United States.

He very frankly declared that it would be a great relief to the people of the United States if President Wilson "would hurry home and clean house in his official family."

If he will do this, Mr. Gallivan added, "I will do more than anything else to check the spread of radicalism and anarchy and make unnecessary a special appropriation of $500,000 urged by the Attorney-General to prevent crime by anarchists."

Mr. Burleson, Mr. Gallivan declared, "has mistreated and maltreated post office employees, exploiting them worse than any profiteer." No corporation slave driver of the old type ever could have displayed less sympathy than Mr. Burleson.

"If he is such a political wonder as he is claimed to be, I pray that he get out of the cabinet and restore my dear old Democratic party to life. He is the greatest misfit in public office this country has ever known, and his continuance in office is a standing menace to my country."

The spirit of unrest among the jailers of the country, Mr. Gallivan said, was breaking out in the most violent form of anarchy in many places. The men most directly responsible, he charged, were "the misguided officials in the city of Washington, clothed with war authority which had turned their heads."

"While the President has been in Europe," he said, "some of these officials seem to have gone mad in their lust for power and have blindly blin-department in such a manner as to aggravate the spirit of unrest."

"Truly it is time to "clean house," unless the administration is willing to assume the responsibility for, and thinks the country can risk the experiment of playing with the fire of incipient Bolshevikism."

Indications are not wanting that the oppressively hot weather, or other influence, at Harrisburg will have the effect of putting much proposed legislation in cold storage.

Beach frequenters will probably learn that it is neither good form nor safe to dispose diamonds and other valuables upon occasion of a visit to this popular resort.

Next to stopping automobile speeding the police can gain favor and good will of residents in no better way than by putting a stop to the activities of garden-browsing cows and prowling dogs!

It is revealing no secret to note that some of the good citizens of Episcopalian faith required verbal validation before they could be admitted to the polls in the act of voting, and getting out the voters.

As is reported, Bernstorff, the bomb plotter, is to sign the treaty of peace, the Senate will have a real reason for refusing to ratify it.

It is well Senator Sherman explained yesterday in his discussion of the League of Nations that the Senate must have confidence in the administration. The party to which the senator belongs has broader views of the issues involved.

Villa announces that he will make no reprisals upon American property and lives in Mexico because American troops chased his gang of bandits back from the border a week ago. There are 2,000 reasons why the chief-of-state would not come to this conclusion, such member of General Huerta's brigade of doughboys being one of the 3,000.

With 35 days, beginning May 27, when the thermometer has registered in the nineties, we will have some difficulty in realizing that today is really the first day of summer.

The cables report that a psychological swing in favor of signing the peace treaty has come about the name. If this is followed by a physical swing of the chief output the world can reconcile itself to some of the delinquencies of the treaty.

The world has little interest in how many cabinet officers in Germany resign. The important thing to know is, what will take out the "if" and make it "sign."

As usual the church will be quite the coolest places in the city tomorrow.

Where did those warriors who are to meet in the rapids at Toledo win their service stripes?

Would it not be more in accord with the principles of justice to bring Bernstorff back to America and try him for his infamous conspiracies against the lives and property of Americans than to have the treaty of peace come here with his signature appended?

These cards have been left in stores over the community and it only takes a minute of any citizen's time to step in and fill in a card and drop it in the box.

AUTOMOBILE IS NOW NECESSITY

Has Established Itself as Quick, Clean Method of Transportation Everywhere.

BENEFIT TO CIVILIZATION

To Treat Motor as a Plaything is Big Mistake—Is Important Factor in All Spheres of Life—Command Respect.

The automobile, as a method of quick, clean transportation, has established itself the world over.

It is true it was not considered such in the early days when its mechanical dependability had not been proved. But when dependability came, its position was made secure. Today the motorcar is an important factor in all spheres of life. It is a utility, a vital one, and is so recognized by those who have been introduced to its use, and who appreciate, to the fullest extent, its manifold advantages; and how helpless they would be if it were necessary to do without this modern convenience.

To treat the modern automobile lightly, as a plaything, is a mistake. True, it is ready for recreative purposes, but that is simply one method for which it may be employed.

Those who know most about accomplishment of the motorcar and the great changes the use of the automobile has made in this country hold it in deepest admiration and respect.

Motor Has Influence

We all seem to agree that transportation is close to civilization. To believe one, you must have the other. They go hand in hand. And it is not too much to say that the advent of the motorcar and its use during the last 12 years, particularly, has had a marked influence on the people of this country.

The use of the automobile has broadened us. We are better able to appreciate the country. We have a better idea of our United States. Through this agency the East understands a little better the West, the South knows more about the North and vice versa. The automobile has actually brought our people closer together.

Take the matter of good roads. What single thing has been responsible for our activity in this direction? The automobile, of course. And we all know it. The country was woefully behind in the matter. But marvelous achievements have taken place. Thousands of miles of splendid, durable highways have been built; more are under construction, and it is only a question of time before we shall have a fine network of roads throughout the whole country.

Is the automobile a necessity? It is. It is proving itself so. It is owned by those who appreciate the motorcar as such. It is estimated that more than a third of the automobiles in use in this country are owned by farmers, or those who live in the country, and who find it necessary to make frequent trips to near-by communities to buy supplies or for other purposes.

It is true the man in the country was able to get along, in some way, before the automobile came, but it is likewise true that his progress and advancement is dated from the time he was able to use a motorcar. Farm life changed from that time.

Economic Factor

Is the automobile an economic factor? It is. Its use in the business world has been recognized for some time and is a recognized factor in present-day activity. To the salesman, the business man, the merchant, the real estate man, to those who must be about, it has lengthened days. They are able to do more—to see more people and to cover more territory.

And the man with a car does not get tired as easily as he would otherwise. He saves his energy for his work, rather than using it in getting to his destination.

Does the automobile save life? It does. The use of motorcars by nearly 100 per cent of the physicians in this country is ample proof of the esteem in which it is held by this profession. In every walk of life, in every em-

Why MICHELIN tires can be priced so moderately

MICHELIN users, familiar with the unsurpassed quality of MICHELIN Tires, often ask "How is it possible to sell MICHELIN Tires at prices no higher than ordinary makes?"

The answer is to be found in MICHELIN's unequalled experience and in MICHELIN's watchword "Economical Efficiency."

MICHELIN invented the pneumatic automobile tire in 1889, and since then has concentrated on the production of pneumatic tires only. This specialized experience has taught MICHELIN how to make better tires more economically.

More than half of MICHELIN sales are made through its own agency, thus permitting economy to be exercised to the greatest advantage in the service of its customers. Every MICHELIN tire will result in greater efficiency, which fully meets our claim that MICHELIN tires cannot equal themselves in quality. Consequently, you will not find MICHELIN turn back on expensive representations in MICHELIN offices. Nor will you find MICHELIN branches located in smaller quarters, answer just as well.

Hence it is that MICHELIN Tires and Tubes can be sold at prices no higher than ordinary makes, though they are recognized as the world's quality tires.

seavor, in every instance where time is a consideration, where energy is desired, the automobile looms large as the vehicle to be used. Ask the automobile owner and see what he says. Stop the next one you meet and ask him the question to him.

We are living in a remarkable age. In an age when so much is taken for granted. The marvelous seems to be commonplace for us in the midst of marvels. The automobile was introduced in such a period.

May it that we are too close to its newness to appreciate its wonder. For it is a wonder. A truly great one. But, like many other things given to us in the last 25 years, we have accepted it without giving the necessary credit to its wonderful capabilities. But it is a certainty that future history will give to the automobile its proper place.

Automobile Is Safe

We need not worry. The automobile is safe. The automobile industry is secure. The automobile serves the people and as long as does this efficiently, and there is a reason to believe that this efficiency, if anything, is going to increase, it is safe to say that there will be need for motorcars, and that the law of supply and demand will govern their manufacture and distribution.

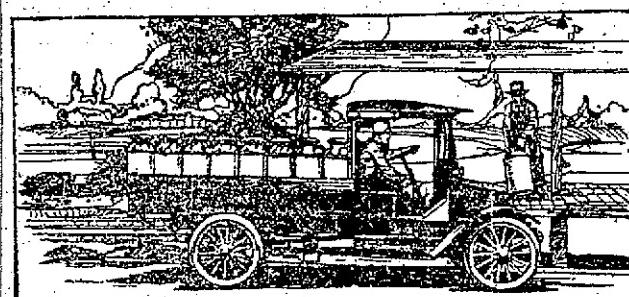

But let us not forget this:

That the development of the automobile from a crude, mechanical affair erratic and feeble—in performance—to the powerful, smoothly running, efficient machine of today is a glowing tribute to the courage, determination and skill of those great pioneers who saw in the creation of their handwork the birth of a utility which would some day become indispensable to industrial progress and national prosperity.

MOTORTRUCKS HAVE REVOLUTIONIZED BUSINESS OF QUICK TRANSPORTATION

Motor Truck Facilitates Transportation of MILK.

When the necessity for moving war essentials, simply overwhelmed the railroads and paralyzed shipping conditions, the world was brought to a realization of what motor trucks could accomplish in emergencies. Thousands of business men learned the answers to their individual transportation problems and will permanently profit by them.

It is apparent, on the other hand, that many others have even yet failed to come to a complete realization of all that the motor truck means to present and future transportation.

No industry, no business house requiring either pick-up or delivery can obtain full success today without the use of one or more trucks. The public demands quick service—motor truck delivery is the solution.

Daily Object Lessons.

Every day the object lesson is driven home. One merchant increases his business because of the dependability of his deliveries. His competitor, with otherwise equally good facilities, bare

SUCCESS OF RURAL ROUTES

Important Factors Which Must Be Given Consideration in Motor Transportation.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There are four important factors which must be given consideration by the beginner in the field of rural motor transportation. These four factors are: (1) The volume of farm products produced along the contemplated route; (2) the volume of miscellaneous hauling which could be secured to supplement regular loads; (3) competition from other carriers which would be encountered; (4) the character of the highways over which the trucks must run. It may safely be said that the features mentioned above will ultimately determine the success or failure of any rural route.

When going down a long hill change from one brake to the other, so as to allow the lining to cool. If this is not done brake linings wear away rapidly and sometimes burn. Thus, by frequent changes you prolong the life of the lining several hundred per cent.

APPLYING ANTI-SKID CHAINS

Work Must Be Performed So as to Avoid Clinking of Loose Chains Against Fender.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Too many motortruck routes have been started where a good one-way business was assured and the operator felt justified in returning with empty trucks. It is unsafe to generalize, but it may be definitely stated at this point that practically no route has ever been successful which has depended on a one-way load.

NEARLY a half million Buick Valve-in-Head Motorcars are in service—and the most remarkable phase of that fact is the unusual length of each Buick car's service.

There is no magic about the long life of Buick cars. Their owners simply get from them the life, the stamina that is built into each one of them.

Today motorists accept Buick longevity for its character of construction and individual endurance.

The Choice of Responsible People

PEOPLE are entitled to more value and better service for their money from present-day motor cars.

They have learned from experience that a mediocre car is an ultimate waste of money as well as an immediate handicap.

The demand for Lexington cars comes not only from the desire of people to enjoy the highest type of car while it is new, but because they are looking years ahead.

They know they can put implicit confidence in Lexington cars and in the policy of the institution behind them.

The sum-totaled goodness of this car is possible at its price only because ten large factories, devoted to automobile parts, are affiliated with and contribute to Lexington, thus insuring a better car for less money.

PIECES OF EIGHT:

BEING THE AUTHENTIC NARRATIVE OF A TREASURE DISCOVERED IN THE BAHAMA ISLANDS IN THE YEAR 1903—NOW FIRST GIVEN TO THE PUBLIC.

By Richard Le Gallienne

COPYRIGHT 1919 BY DAILY COURIER. PAGE NO. 1000.

I had no thought of following her, but stood in a dream among the wild palms and palms.

Ever we had come that hour of wonder; for me out of that tropic sea, into whose shallows came my eyes had so often gone adream, had risen the creature of instinct.

O! shape of moonlit marble! O! holiness of this night of mists and stars and sea!

Yes I was in love. Yet I hope, and think, that the reader will not resent this unexpected incursion into the realms of sentiment when he considers that my sudden attack was not, like most such sudden attacks, an interruption in the robust course of events, but, instead, curiously in the direct line of my purpose. Because the eyes of an unknown girl had thus suddenly enthralled me I was not, therefore, to lose sight of that purpose.

On the contrary, they had suddenly shone out on the pathway along which I had been blindly groping. But for the accident of being in the dirty little store at so psychological a moment, hearing that strangely familiar voice and catching sight of that mysterious doubleton as well as those mysterious eyes, I should have set sail that very night and given up John P. Tobin's second treasure in final disgust. As it was, I was now warmly on the track of some treasure—whether his or not—with two bright eyes further to point the way. Never surely did a man's love and his purpose make so practical a combination.

When I reached my lodgings at last in the early morning following that night of wonders my eyes and heart were not so dazed with that vision in the cave that I did not vividly recall one important detail of the strange picture—those streams of gold that had suddenly poured out of the mouth and hands of the lovely apparition.

Without doubting the evidence of my senses I was forced to believe that, by the oddest piece of luck, I had stumbled upon the hiding place of that hoard of doubletons, on which my fair unknown drew from time to time as she would out of a bank.

But who was she?—and where was her home? There had seemed no sign of habitation near the wild place where I had come upon her, though, of course, a solitary house might easily have escaped my notice hidden among all that foliage, particularly at nightfall.

To be sure, I had but to inquire of the storekeeper to learn all I wanted; but I was averse from betraying my interest to him or to anyone in the settlement—for, after all, it was my own affair, hers. So I determined to pursue my policy of watching and waiting, letting a day or two elapse before I again went out wandering with the world out of a bank.

I left the craggy bluff facing the sea and plunged it to the woods. I had no idea how dark it was going to be, coming out of the sun, I was at once bewildered by the deep and complicated gloom of massed branches overhead, and the deeper darkness of shrubs and vines so intricately interwoven as almost to make a solid wall about one. Then the atmosphere was so close and airless that a fear of suffocation combined at once with the other fear of being swallowed up in all this savage green life, without hope of finding one's way out again into the sun. I fought my way in but a very few yards when both these fears clutched hold of me with a sudden horro, and the perspiration poured from me; I could no longer distinguish between the way I had come and any other part of the wood! Indeed, there was no way anywhere!

I must have barreled through the veritable inferno of vegetation for at least an hour—though it seemed a lifetime. Clouds of paroxysmally unpleasant odors filled my nose, not to speak of mosquitoes and a peculiar kind of persistent stinging. It was added to my misery, when at last, begrimed and dripping with sweat, I stumbled out, with a cry of thankfulness, on to comparatively fresh air and something like a broad avenue running north and south through the wood. It was indeed densely overgrown, and had evidently not been used for many years. Still, it was comparatively passable, and one could at least see the sky and take long breaths once more.

Still there was no sign of a house anywhere. Presently, however, as I stumbled along I noticed something looming darkly through the matted forest on my left that suggested walls. Looking closer, I saw that it was the ruin of a small stone cottage, roofless, and undesirably swallowed up in the giddy scrub. And then, near by, I descried another such ruin, and still another—all, as it were, sunk in the terrible gloom of the vegetation, as sometimes, at low tide, one can discern the walls of a ruined village at the bottom of the sea.

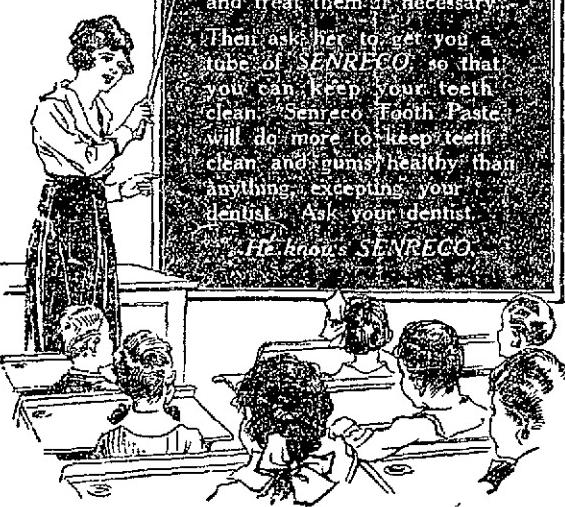

Evidently I had come upon a long-abandoned settlement, and presently, on some slightly higher ground to the left, I thought I could make out the half-submerged walls of a much more ambitious edifice. Looking closer, I noted, with a thrill of surprise, the beginning of a very narrow path, not more than a foot wide, leading up through the scrub in its direction. Narrow as it was, it had clearly been kept open by the not-infrequent passage of feet. With a certain eerie feeling, I edged my way up it, and, after following it for a hundred yards or so, head once more returned to its natural angle, I was suddenly made aware that my pouching had not gone unnoticed. "Ha! ha!" called a pleasant voice, evidently belonging to a man of no accompany him—"you must certainly give us the pleasure of your company to luncheon. Visitors are as rare as black swans on this Ultima Thule of ours—though, by the way, the black swan, cygnus atratus, in nothing like as rare as the ancients believed. I have shot them myself out to Australia. Still they are rare enough for the purpose of imagery, though really not so rare as a human being one can talk intelligently to on this island."

Many children are behind their class because of bad, unclean teeth.

Talk! My friend indeed, very evidently was a talker—one of those fantastic monologists to whom an audience is little more than a symbol. I saw that there was no need for me to do any o' the talking. He was more than glad to do it all. Plainly his encounter with me was to him like a spring in a thirsty land.

"Solitude," he continued, "is perhaps the final need of the human soul.

After while, when we have run the gamut of all our ardors and our dreams, solitude comes to seem the one excellent thing, the summa bonum."

I intimated that he certainly seemed to have come to the right place for it. "Very true, indeed," he assented, with a courtly inclination of his head, as though I had said something profound; "very true, indeed, and yet wasn't it the great Bacon who said: 'Whoever is delighted with solitude is either a beast or a god'?"—and this particular solitude, I confess, sometimes seems to me a little too much like that enforced solitude of the Ponde marshes of which Ord wailed and whimpered in the deaf ears of Augustus."

I could not help noticing at last as he talked on with fantastic magnificence, the odd contrast between his speech and the almost equally fantastic poverty of his clothing. The suit he wore, though still preserving a certain elegance of cut, was so worn and patched and stained that a negro would hardly have accepted it as a gift; and his almost painful emaciation gave him generally the appearance of an animated framework of rags and bones, startlingly embodying the voice and the manners of a prince.

Close to the gates a spacious garden lies, from storms defended and inclemency skies—

"and so on. Alas!" for an old man's memory! It grows shorter and shorter—like his life, eh? Never mind, you are welcome, sir stranger, mysterious, tossed up here like Ulysses, on our island coast."

I gazed with natural wonderment at this strange individual, who thus in the heart of the wilderness had saluted me with a mettulously pure English accent, and welcomed me in a quotation from Homer in the original Greek. Who in the devil's name, was this odd character who, I saw, as I looked closer at him, was, as he had hinted, quite an old man though his unusual erectness and sprightliness of manner, lent him an illusive air of youth? Who on earth was he—and how did he happen in the middle of this haunted wood?

BIG FURNACE COKE CONTRACT CLOSED ON A SLIDING SCALE

Product Formerly Consumed at Plants of the U. S. Steel Corporation.

SPOT SHOWS EASIER TONE

Negotiations for Second Half Confined to Furnaces in Blast; Flat Price Basis Not in Favor; Producers Like Short Term Foundry Coke Contracts

From The Weekly Courier.

PITTSBURG, June 18.—The Oliver & Sayler Steel company, whose coke has been on the market, for delivery after July 1, since the United States Steel Corporation decided it would not require coke in future, has already closed contracts involving 33,000 to 35,000 tons a month for the second half of the year, and most of the remainder of the company's capacity, which is about 70,000 tons a month altogether, is under negotiation with other interests.

The sales made on a "sliding scale" basis, the price of basic pig iron at Valley furnaces being the determining element, with a minimum in any event of $4.00. The purchasers were three furnace interests, two being in operation while the third is expected to blow in its stack in the near future, its requirements being about 7,000 tons a month. Among the negotiations now in progress is one for a long term contract involving coke at first and in the more distant future coal for by-product coking by the furnace interest.

Coke operators are continuing their negotiations almost entirely to furnaces that are now in operation, as with promise of improved conditions later in the year they are indisposed to tie up with consumers who would take no coke now, when it is not easy to dispose of coke, and would take coke only when conditions are improved and it would be relatively easy to sell coke.

Negotiations are on various bases, an exception being a flat price basis, as that seems to be the one that is altogether in disfavor with coke operators. They feel that such a flat price as could be obtained at this time would not prove a satisfactory one, or equal the average price that would be realized under a sliding scale arrangement.

In any case of buyers and sellers being unable to agree on second half contracts, it is probable that existing arrangements, involving monthly adjustment of price, will be continued for a time. June adjustments were at $4.00, in most instances, and the same figure would probably obtain for July. Operators who would be well satisfied with $4.00 at present would not think of selling at any such price through the half year, but there is no definite statement as to what they would do, hence there is no quotable contract market.

Spot furnace coke shows an easier tone again. There have been sales in the past week at all the way from $3.75 to $4.00, the sales below $4.00 easily predominating. There is not much demand, and this accounts for the irregularity, as any price below $4.00 is considered irregular. The spot market, however, can be quoted at $3.75 to $4.00, based on recent sales. Spot foundry coke continues to move at $4.50 to $5.00, depending on quality, but the sales at $5.00 easily predominate. Some coke formerly held at $4.75 is now bringing $5.

While foundries would prefer to contract for the twelve-month beginning July 1, the operators are indisposed to make contracts for so long a period, except at prices higher than foundries are willing to pay, hence practically all the contract business done has been for the half year. The lowest price heard is in connection with a well known coke that formerly brought top prices, this price being $5.00. Other cokes are held at $5.25 and $5.50, the last named being practically the top of the market, though it may be mentioned incidentally that one little contract has been made at $5.75. It would probably be more difficult to buy coke at $1.00 for the twelve-month than at $5.50 for the six months, but there has not been enough negotiating to establish any twelve-month market, hence it is preferable to quote the contract market for six months only, the range being $5.00 to $5.50. These values as a whole may be quoted as follows:

Furnace	$4.00
Spot foundry	$4.50 to $5.00
Second half foundry	$5.00 to $5.50

The Pittsburgh district coal market is hardly any more active than it was, but each week operators become stiffer in their views for the future, and they would not think of making contracts to the end of the calendar year at anything like the spot prices now prevailing, which range down from $2.35, obtainable on gas coal and best grades of steam coal. Labor troubles are regarded as far from improbable, as the present scale expires by limitation on the date the President proclaims that peace has come. There have been slight ear shortages late, and this is held to augur poorly for late in the year.

The local pig iron market is not active, but shows a better tone than formerly. The Pittsburgh Steel Foundry has bought a little basic iron and Wellman Brothers' company has bought about 3,000 tons. The Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company late last week bought 4,000 tons of foundry iron, half for its Allegheny plant and half for its New Brighton plant. All the Valley iron bought was substantially the full asking price, but there was some iron bought from an outside furnace at a material concession from the regular price. Valley asking prices remain as follows:

Bessemer	$27.50
Basic	$25.50
Foundry	$25.75
Forge	$25.75

Freight valleys to Pittsburgh is $1.40, but there are some detached furnaces that would make lower prices delivered Pittsburgh than Valley prices plus freight.

STEEL MARKET GAINS SLIGHTLY, SHEETS AND PIPE BEING AFFECTED

Little Change Shown in Other Quarters; Prices for Flatbed Pro-duct Holding Well.

From The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The Ameri-can Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trades tomorrow as follows:

There has been further improvement in the past week in demand for sheets and pipe, but little increase in demand in other quarters. The difference between the finished steel market early in the year and at the present time is that formerly the mar-ket was described by mentioning its few good features while now it is de-scribed by mentioning its few bad fea-tures. The worst is that there is no railroad demand, the next worse is that there is relatively little new construction. Otherwise the finished steel market is in excellent shape.

Current buying represents more than 60 per cent of capacity, and that is a larger percentage than would be ex-pected when railroad buying makes no contribution and construction work very little.

Finished steel prices are holding very well. There is cutting, probably not as much as a fortnight or 30 days ago, but the cutt'g does not seem to menace the general stability of the market.

Steel ingot production averaged 54 per cent of capacity in May, against 65 per cent in April, 77 per cent in March, 85 per cent in February and 87 per cent in January. At one time in May production was probably down nearly if not quite to 50 per cent of capacity. Since then there has been an increase to very nearly 60 per cent this week. It is probable that the low point in production for a period of years has now been passed.

There are occasional reports of contracts being made for steel prod-ucts for extended deliveries. Such contracts are always placed by large buyers, and the trade practice is to take care of large customers. In the matter of price, so that such con-tracting is of no great significance. Of much more importance is the booking of actual shipping orders. Thus in May the United States Steel Corporation's unfilled obligations, in cluding contract obligations, greatly decreased whereas its shipping orders, including specifications against contracts, materially exceeded its ship-ments.

Pig iron is showing somewhat more activity and prices are holding fairly well. Furnaces are less disposed to seek business outside their own districts at cut prices.

SEVEN MILLION WORKERS IN U.S. NEED TRAINING

Modern Industry Has Developed Many Lines of Manufacture That Have No Apprenticeships Provided.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—That seven million of the 10,000,000 industrial workers in this country are handicapped by lack of adequate opportunities for self-improvement is the statement of the director of the United States Training Service of the Department of Labor, based on inves-tigations made in a large number of typical manufacturing plants and personal interviews with manu-facturers, shop superintendents and foremen.

Modern industry has developed many important lines of manufacture of such limited skill that no apprenticeships have been instituted for them. In the skilled lines apprenticeships are haphazardly conducted. In most lines of production where there is no apprenticeship adequate training is wholly lacking and so em-ployers and employees are at a great disadvantage.

It is to overcome this needless bur-den on American production that training courses in plants are ad-vocated by the training service. To back up his claim that this method of fitting men for their jobs is pro-fitable, the service exhibits a number of charts showing the transformation wrought in workers who were sent through training departments. These show that on the average the new employee learns his new work in about half the time formerly required and that old employees of mediocre skill, or less, can be "upgraded" to equal some of the best. Others are fitted for promotion by training.

Not only is the average produc-tion raised by the introduction of training but labor turnover is reduced and spoilage is much less. The factories having training departments find that in most cases they are self-support-ing.

New West Virginia Enterprise. It is reported that a number of West Virginia manufacturers and financiers have organized the West Virginia Metal Products company, Fairmont, to build a $1,500,000 plant for fusing copper, spelter and other alloys into brass in furnaces heated by gas and providing for electrical heat when required.

Enlarging 25 Per Cent. The Canonsburg Steel & Iron com-pany plant at Canonsburg is being enlarged 25 per cent in capacity and fuel consumption.

Locomotive Orders from Africa. The American Locomotive company has taken an order for 10 locomotives for the Nigerian railroads.

NURSING MOTHER GREATLY HELPED BY NERV-WORTH

Her Sickly Baby Also Wonderfully Benefited by the Medicine.

Nursing mothers should read with great care the following statement; also the parents of sickly children. Nerv-Worth is wonderfully beneficial when given to the little ones:

"I was in such a miserable condition that I could not sleep. Got up in the morning feeling tired and not rested. Was all run down, weak and extremely nervous. Had severe pains in my back. Was nursing my baby and did not feel strong enough for the task. Was uneasy as to whether I could supply enough nourishment for it. After using one bottle of Nerv-Worth I found I was gaining strength, was sleeping and resting well, eating and enjoying my food and no trouble with indigestion. My baby became strong and healthy and I noticed a great improvement in its bowels, which are now regular and healthy. I consider Nerv-Worth one of the greatest remedies I have ever used and especially for women in my condition. I cheerfully recommend it. I am now taking my second bottle and will keep Nerv-Worth in my home."

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"THE HUMAN SHUTTLE"—Featuring Harold Lockwood, supported by Mae Allison, is today's attraction. The picture is one of intense interest and provides for Mr. Lockwood one of the best roles of his screen career. A selected comedy is also being shown. Monday and Tuesday Frank Keenan will appear in "The Bells." He plays the role of Mathias, innkeeper and murderer, made famous by the late Henry Irving. "More Trouble" has been amply described as a tragic farce, but in "The Bells" one sees Keenan as an impressive and commanding figure, even though a haunted and a crazed one. It is a vivid master performance which was first shown at the Rialto theatre, New York, and stamped by the critics as one of the greatest screen productions. Mr. Keenan portrays the workings of a tortured soul, relentlessly lashed by conscience, with an artistic completeness that cannot be approached by any other character actor on the stage today. Pictorially the story is endowed with the best that screen technique and the most skillful direction could give.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"SPOTLIGHT SADIE"—The new Goldwyn Mae Marsh picture, is being presented today. Miss Marsh, who appears in the leading role, has a fetching way that wins the heart of the spectator. It is a picture with theatrical life as a background and one of the most interesting characters in it, after the heroine, is the publicity man, attached to the show. He is up against it for an idea and something in Sadie's character suggests his playing her up as a saint. She is not that, strictly speaking, but something much better in the way of a sweetheart as the rich hero discovers. He is attracted to her by the publicity she gets. Then he is disappointed because she doesn't fill his ideal, but he discovers in the end her real true-hearted charming self. The picture is filled with compelling comedy situations that keeps the audience laughing. Every sensible person will like this picture. Miss Marsh is supported by Wallace Mac-Donald, Mary Thurman, Betty Schade, Alex B. Francis, P. M. McCullough and others. A selected comedy is also being presented.

It is to overcome this needless burden on American production that training courses in plants are advocated by the training service. To back up his claim that this method of fitting men for their jobs is pro-itable, the service exhibits a number of charts showing the transformation wrought in workers who were sent through training departments.

These show that on the average the new employee learns his new work in about half the time formerly required and that old employees of mediocre skill, or less, can be "upgraded" to equal some of the best. Others are fitted for promotion by training.
